This is the first Newsletter of the Tanja Liedtke Foundation. We welcome and value your interest, and look forward to bringing you regular updates about the activities of the Foundation.

The Foundation is based in Stuttgart Germany and was established in July 2008 to honour the dancer and choreographer, Tanja Liedtke. Tanja Liedtke was a leader in the emergence of a very dynamic generation of young innovative artists. Her inspiration and her passion for dance and for life is a core part of her legacy, and the Foundation works in the spirit of that inspiration and that passion.

With the central purpose to support the enrichment and advancement of contemporary dance and the growth of Australian/European artistic connections, the Foundation has already embarked on its mission, with the awarding of the first Tanja Liedtke Fellowship as well as support for the international presentation of contemporary dance. (see articles below)

The Tanja Liedtke Foundation is a unique philanthropic initiative. With a focus on exploring the boundless field of contemporary dance and choreography in an environment of international exchange, the Foundation works in partnership with other arts and philanthropic organizations. Bringing a degree of expertise and an energetic network of arts professionals into the mix, the Foundation is positioned to create interesting and rewarding opportunities for artists, and in this way, make a significant contribution to the arts.

Tanja Liedtke Fellowship 2009

We are delighted to announce the winner of the inaugural Tanja Liedtke Fellowship. Antony Hamilton, a dancer and choreographer based in Melbourne, will travel to Berlin in August 2009 to take up the Fellowship which offers Australian dancers and choreographers an extraordinary set of professional development opportunities.

Hamilton is one of Australia's most charismatic and 'in-demand' dancers, working with Australian Dance Theatre, Chunky Move and Lucy Guerin companies. In parallel with this impressive performing career, he has started to produce some outstanding choreographic works of his own. His debut full-length work, Blazeblue online, received enthusiastic responses from critics and audiences and was described as a, 'fast-paced, acid infused, visual stream of consciousness with an infectious sense of fun'. In 2008, he was nominated for a Green Room Award for The Counting. This work is being remounted in March of this year for the 2009 Dance Massive festival in Melbourne. www.dancemassive.com.au

This year's Fellowship has been conceived and created in partnership with contemporary dance theatre company, Sasha Waltz & Guests, and Berlin's exciting new hub for contemporary arts, Radialsystem V. www.sashawaltz.de, www.radialsystem.de

The Fellowship combines a structured program of international exchange with a choreographic development project designed by Antony, which will include artists based in Berlin. This project will take place over the last 4 weeks of the Fellowship period in one of the studio spaces at Radialsystem V. There will also be an informal showing of this development project in a public forum at Radialsystem V during Berlin's Asia-Pacific Weeks. During his stay in Berlin, Hamilton will also have the chance to work with the artists of Sasha Waltz & Guests. The Fellowship program also includes attendance at performances and participation in master classes at Berlin's Tanz im August Festival.

The Foundation was overwhelmed by the number and the quality of applications received. Twenty eight applications in all were reviewed by the selection panel, which consisted of Chair of the Foundation - Gerlinde Liedtke, Australian representative of TLF - Shane Carroll, choreographer and teacher Rebecca Hilton, and arts consultant Sophie Travers.

Antony is, needless to say, looking forward to arriving in Berlin. "I see Berlin as an international hotbed of contemporary art, architecture, dance, music, and design – a place where art, body and environment collide and transform. This Fellowship provides an opportunity rarely afforded to artists by combining the freedom to create, alongside a comprehensive learning component, as well as total immersion in the amazingly vibrant Berlin scene. I'm really looking forward to filling my mind and body with the abundance of influences I'll come across. I am so honoured to receive this first Tanja Liedtke Fellowship, and I'm passionate about the opportunity to spread the value of its investment through my choreographic work in the years to come."
